Washington, April 30.—Condition the farming industry, which sine the war suffered the worst depression in its history, have taken a definite turn for the better, according to Eugene Meyer, Jr., and the outlook for the future is bright.

Meyer conveyed this information to resident Harding in a special report on a trip he took at the president's direction through farming states of the west. He traveled more than 11,000 miles, visiting the principal western cities.

"I found on my trip," said Meyer that the severe, and indeed unprecedented depression which dealt such a hard blow to the agricultural intererts is in some sections of the country a thing of the past; that in other sections it is rapidly passing, and that everywhere hope and confidence are taking the place of the despair thich six months ago was so widely Recovery Varied.

The degree of recovery, Meyer found, varies in different sections. Corn and hog raisers of the middle west are marketing daily and gettin a fair return. # POPE WRITES APPEAL

Genoa, April 30.—(By the Associated Press.)—Pope Pius, through Cardinal Gasparri, has addressed to the governments and peoples of the world a letter, which is described as a new spur to universal brotherhood and a new admonition of disasters likely to befall mankind if efforts likely to befall mankind if efforts or true pacification should fail. This act by the Holy See has created great interest and has seemed already to inspire all to renewed efforts to make the Genoa conference of lasting good to the world.

Commenting today, Premier Lloyd George said:

"I cannot say how pleased I am at this remarkable document, nor could I exaggerate the terms in which it is couched. The pope speaks with first hand knowledge of conditions in eastern Europe, and I feel that so clear and definite a pronouncement by the Holy See in favor of peace with Russia is a great encouragement to the Christian powers assembled at Genoa."

The ideals of the pope are being preached here by Don Lufgi Sturzo, leader of the Italian Catholic party, who is attaining a unique position in an unofficial capacity at the conference. who is attaining a unique position in an unofficial capacity at the conference. There seems to be a remarkable identity of views concerning international co-operation and international broherhood proclaimed by Surzo with those Lloyd George has recently been urging in connection with the necessity of making some co-operative arrangement with all the people of Europe, including especially Russia and Germany.

Officially the economic conference saw little activity today. The jurists who are striving to compose the differing views of France and Great Britain on the question of the settlement of the Russian war debts met this afternoon and made confiderable progress. Their report will be submitted to the conference, as will also the plan to dispose of the vering problem of private property in Russia which was confiscated by the soviet government and nationalised. France wants it restored, if it can be located, but Great Britain will be content with enjoying the use of it. The jurists appear to have discovered some formula, which, according to rumor, mentions neither nationalisation, ownership of private priperty nor capitalism in a way to offend the soviet followers of nationalism or the supporters of capitalism in other countries.

While one of these candidates for republican senatorial nomination, to be decided in the primaries Tuesday, be decided in the primaries Tuesday, must be misinformed, it would be impossible at this moment to convince either of such a possibility, for both are supremely confident of victory and conditions as the campaign closes are such that either may be right. "I have this fight won," said Beverldge after closing his campaign, which has taken him into every county in the state. "If the weather Tuesday is fair and there is a heavy vote my majority will be 75,000." Senator New made his prediction after long telephonic conversations with his managers in all parts of the state.

Howard's Statement.

Judge Howard's statement follows:

"As I understand Senator Watson's position on the proposed highway bond issue, while he opposes bonds, he recognizes the importance of providing a state fund to match the federal ald provided by congress, and he realizes that many of the Georgia counties are unable to secure any of the federal funds, due to their inability to raise the necessary amount to meet the requirements of the federal law.

"More than one hundred counties in Georgia will be unable to secure their equitable proportion of the federal allotment to Georgia this year. This has been true for several years past and will continue to be the case during the coming years.

"Senator Watson suggests, as "remedy for this condition, that the legislature enact such legislation as will impose a tax on invisible property, such as notes, mortgages, stocks, etc., which, he says, now escape taxation. He thinks this will yield more than two million of dollars in additional revenue to the state and thable the state to match federal aid for all the counties.

Necessity of Fund.

Her announcement follows two years of labors under the most difficult circumstances in the laboratories of the Moscow micrological institute, which conducts a research department under the auspices of the commissariat of public health. these boundaries," Sir Edward said these boundaries," Sir Edward said these boundaries, "Sir Edward said the these boundaries," Sir Edward said these boundaries, "Sir Edward said these boundaries is determined that the allies shall tackle the task here at Genoa."

Just when or how Lloyd George can bring up this question is not clear and furthermore it is certain that any effort whatever to readjust boundaries will cause the greatest complications in negotiating the non-Aggression pact.

The answer to this is, according to Lloyd-George, that it would be useless to obtain guarantees regarding preservation of frontiers if the nations concerned do not recognize those boundaries. But with Russia, Poland, Lithunania, Rumania and other nations bitterly advancing irreconcilable boundaries. But with Russia, Poland, Lithunania, Rumania and other nations bitterly advancing irreconcilable claims, the conference might be prolonged endlessly with such problems. New Load for Parley.

With these problems before it, the Genoa meeting would soon assume all the aspects of a full-sized peace conference, struggling under this new load and still trying to deal intelligently with such complicated questions as the Politico-Economic agreement with Russia, reparations and the Russo-German combination.

The American observer can see Lloyd George's hopes written into the preamble of the Russian memorandum—on which the allies have now agreed—which states that the allies have considered in the most syamuthetic manner, the problem of the restoration of Russia with a "view to re-establishment of peace."

Indifferent to Peace?

But three weeks of Genoa seem to have demonstrated that aside from Lloyd George and a few other leaders who see where the continent is drifting, most of Europe does not want to be reconstructed. It is either indifferent to peace and the re-establishment of economic reconstruction, or different to peace and the re-establishment of economic reconstruction, or so blinded by nationalistic aims and jealousies as to preclude effective efforts at rejuvenation.

Lloyd George's persuasive powers may yet reconcile these rivalries but the addition of new tasks to the already imposing list makes the job inreasingly more difficult.

Experts are continuing their work on the Russian memorandum and hope to have article two ready for presentation to the allies Monday.

Acting as Trustee Under Wills

The creation of Trusts in Wills has come to be almost of universal practice. Many wills covering large estates create trusts for wives, minors and other inexperienced persons. Wives and Daughters are generally provided for during their lives. Sons are given their income at twenty-one, their share at twenty-five, or one-half at twenty-five and the remainder at thirty years of age. He is an exceptional young man who has sufficient experience to successfully manage his inheritance at twenty-one. In all such cases, we invite consultation, freely advising inexperienced beneficially accessing investments and francement. ficiaries concerning investments and management.

In very many instances, wills covering small estates place the entire estate in Trust, the income to be used for the support of the family and the education of the children, the Trustee being authorized in the Will to use so much of the principal as may be necessary, should the income be insufficient for those purposes. By this means, a small estate is made to last as long as possible and cannot be lost by extravagance, unsafe investments or bad judgment.

$1,000 Protection for Only $1.00 If You Are a Subscriber to the Daily and Sunday Constitution

In offering insurance protection for death or disability due to accidents to all of its readers, The Atlanta Constitution believes that it is extending a benefit, the value of which is at once obvious. Accidents are a daily occurence in Atlanta. Travel on street cars and other forms of public conveyance, and in private automobiles and walking the streets, is constantly attended by danger. The evidence of that danger is a subject of daily news reports. Scarcely a day passes without an account of one or more such accidents, dealing death and injury. For death or total or partial disability suffered in such accidents, insurance benefits are provided by The Atlanta Constitution for its readers in both city and country.

This insurance offer is not a premium for a thirty or sixty or ninety-day subscription. It is every-day protection for regular readers, old or new. It continues in force for every reader of The Atlanta Constitution during the life of the policy which is sent to him.

The Atlanta Constitution believes that regular reading of The Atlanta Constitution from day to day, is full of profit in itself. Its policy is to give its readers a full day's portion of news and information and enjoyment. The offer of this insurance creates no extra liability on the part of the reader and has no strings tied to it. The sole desire is to give regular readers of The Atlanta Constitution the benefit of protection for which every citizen of Atlanta has need.

By special arrangement with the North American Accident Insurance Company, we can now give this protection to the entire family on the conditions named below.

More than 1,529 accidents in Atlanta during the last 18 months caused by autos, steam cars and street cars. The Accident and Pedestrian Insurance offered by The Constitution would have covered almost all of these accidents.

Newspaper Clipping Found of Test Made Successfully in 1902.

What is believed to have been one of the earliest feats of amateur radie telephony has just been brought to light in the finding of a clipping from The Minneapolis Times of April 6. 1902. The clipping was found among the effects of D. McNichol, assistant to the president of the Radio Corporation of America. This paints a clear picture of the status of radio telegraphy at that time, and the vague theories held by popular minds concerning it. The clipping reads in

It may be doubtful if Mr. Mc-Nichol can qualify as the first radio amateur on the strength of this clipping, but he certainly has established his claim to membership in the Old Timers' association. One thing is certain—reporters held their quaint theories of radio matters in those days, even as in some cases at the present time.

"While experimenting with wireless telegraphy Friday evening, D. McNichol, general telegraph agent of the Soo road, was startled by receiving messages from someone who was also experimenting with the system.

"The message was often broken, but letters and words would come through so distinctly as to satisfy Mr. McNichol that he was at one end of a very satisfactory test.

"There was nothing distinct at first, and Mr. McNichol concluded that some ordinary electrical influence had caused it. But a few minutes later the instrument clicked again, and the letters were plain. Later there was more connection to the letters, until words could be spelled. The word "after" was the first one that came complete.

"Mr. McNichol now became thoroughly aroused, and he immediately made the instrument as sensitive as possible. He placed carbon filings between the silver plates of his coherer, but had hardly done this before the message ceased.

An electromagnetic wave, radiated from a transmitter aerial, will induce raid-frequent oscillations, of maximum amplitude, in receiving aerial provided that the receiving aerial is electrically tuned to the frequency of the radiated wave. Tuning is the process of obtaining electrical resonance and if two circuits of radio frequency, each containing inductance and capacity, are so adjusted that the product of the inductance and capacity in one circuit has a value equal to the product of the inductance and capacity in the other, these circuits are said to be in electrical resonance. In order, therefore, for oscillations of maximum amplitude to be induced in the open circuit of the receiver, it must be tuned to a condition of electrial resonance with the open circuit of the transmitter.

RADIO AND THE FARM.

The probable influence of the radio telephone upon agriculture and the part it is likely to play in the every-day life of the farmer suggests a practically limitless field for speculation.

Authorities generally are agreed that the wireless telephone, now in the initial stages of its development, is destined to become our foremost means of transmission of intelligence: and that it will even tually, though with comparative swiftness, merge from the status of a popular novelty into that of an indispensable public utility.

Up to this point its use has been confined mainly to city dwellers and chiefly for amusement: but its adaptability to business uses, both in the city and on the farm, is obvious from practical demonstrations thus far made.

Suggestive of its possibilities as means of adding to the attractiveness of country life, a writer in Wallace's Farmer, in a recent discussion of radio as a farm utilty, asked his rural readers:

"How would you like to sit in chores are done, and be able to talk to a far-distant friend or relative: or listen to a lecture being delivered by some prominent speak-er in a distant city—Chicago, New York, or Denver, perhaps; or enjoy a good opera performance bethe music of an orchestra or band Recent dispatches from Washington have been of a nature to

"How would you like to know every evening what kind of weath er the latest returns of the weather oureau indicate that the morrov will bring; what the hog market is, the egg market, or the corn mar of the day happens to be on any product you have for sale?"

He went on to say that some of the farmers of the west have experimented with radio "very successfully," and the results have been "most gratifying."

He informed his readers that even now "the government bureaus are co-operating with the needs of the farmer by sending out daily weather forecasts and storm warnings, market reports and correct time signals," and any with representatives of Mr. Ford farmer who equips himself with a receiving set and "tunes in" may

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

New York, May 1.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys:

Up and vexed at my hair coming off so much. A furious blowing in the street, but the ladies, with their short skirts, not troubled thereby. Walked to my mercer and settled his score, but with little joy. Saw Lady Astor lately come here, and not the pretty twoman I judged her to be.

CO-OPERATIVE SALES PLANNED AT ASHBURN

Ashburn, Ga., April 30.—(Special.)
Arrangements have been completed for the sale of a carload of registered Guernsey bulls here May 4. The farmers of the county are planning to form bull-clubs and a block of the farmers in each neighborhood will own a bull co-operatively. Plans are already on fot to bring registered helfers into the county during the fall. The plan now seems to be for several farmers to buy carload lots together. It has been announced that there would be another chicken sale held in Turner county May 16. This is the second to be held in the county in recent months, and it is expected that the farmers of the county will furnish a full carload.

The success of the co-operative selling in the county has been remarkable since it was begun last fall. Beginning with hog sales soon after he hegan his duties last fall, H. B. Ralls, Jr., tho county agent, has saved the farmers of the county large amounts on every sale. One farmer stated a few days ago that the sales had saved him enough money above what he would have been able to realize, to pay the county agent one-third time by himself.

pay the county agent one-third time by himself.

The farmers of the county are planning through the farm bureau to keep something to market each month during the year. The county is now in the Southwestern Watermelon Growers' association and a number of farmers have a few acres of melons. However, none is depending on any one crop. Altogether the farmers of the county seem to be working with better suit this year than at any time during the last several years. Everything about the farms is being cleaned up and planted. More guano was bought this year and the merchants report better trade and also a better feeling generally among the farmers.

Such wholesome prejudice as still exists against the tango, the shimmy, jazz music and offensively immodest dressing rests upon the fact that these are weaknesses picked out of the gutter and adopted by young women who lack brains and old-fashioued home training.

Fifteen or twenty years agc we learned to recognize as a type the woman who wore bobbed hair and smoked cigarettes. She was the advance model for the present fashion. We found her in jail or in the charity ward, of the hospital. She wasn't there because she had bobbed her hair or centracted the cigarette habit, but jail and the free surgical wards were just the natural places for her to complete her education.

That was 15 or 20 years ago.

And whatever charity I may have had at one time for the cigarette as affected by the feminine sex, I say now that the girl or woman who cultivates the cigarette habit is quite as untrustworthy as is the youth who smokes. Not because she smokes; not because of any terrible degenerative effect of of any terrible degenerative inherent to acco; but because some inherent defect in her education or character leads her along this road.

The United States census report which relates to crops in 1919, differs very much with the report of the government board of crop estimates. The census report is supposed to be based on statements made to the census representatives by the farmers at their respective homes. Those statements were accepted by the government and the total crop entered on the record as 2,759,000 bushels, which is 44.5 per cent less than the government estimate given in the above figures. Cahutta, Ga., April 30 .- (Special.)

Cahutta, Ga., April 30.—(Special.)
His two hound dogs saved McKinley Shults, farmer, from death at the fangs of a pair of large copper head snakes Saturday morning.

Reaching the end of a furrow, Mr. Shults left his plow to rest a few moments in the shade of the woodland that borders the field of M. Z. Whittman, near this place. His dogs had been playing around the field as he worked and followed him.

Seating himself on a log, the farmer began idly poking about the underbrush with a pole when suddenly it was wrenched from his hands and he was startled by a duet of enraged hisses almost at his feet.

In a trice a pair of snakes, enraged at the disturbance, glided out of the grass. The man leaped backward from his seat, falling at full length, on the ground, dazed by surprise and the shock of his fall. Before the maddened reptiles could reach him the two dogs rushed into the attack, growling and snapping at the glidding bodies and diverting their onslaught. Regaining possession of himself in a moment or two, Mr. Shults sprang from the ground and recovered his pole, killing both of the snakes with well directed blows. He brought them into town where they were on display Saturday afternoon. Both measured seven feet in length and were vell develoyed.

CERVICE to the public, long a Citizens and Southern slogan, is responsible for the opening this morning of the Whitehall Street Office, at the intersection of that street with Mitchell.

For many years the Citizens and Southern Bank has enjoyed a large and pleasant business from the merchants, manufacturers and individuals living and doing business on the south side. This business has grown year by year, until we concluded to take the Citizens and Southern to these customers instead of making them come to the Citizens and Southern.

The Whitehall Street Office will be a real bank. It will receive both Commercial and Savings Deposits. It will lend money and perform every proper function of a bank.

Henry S. Cohen, assistant cashier of the Citizens and Southern Bank, and a man splendidly fitted for the place by both nature and training, will be manager. He will have the benefit of the advice of a board of directors composed of Frank Hawkins, W. W. Banks, T. C Erwin, W. V. Crowley, H. Lane Young, R. J. Hudson, A. M Bergstrom, Geo. H. Fauss and H. S. ## The Constitution's Novel-a-Week HALF LOAVES BY MARGARET CULKIN BANNING

Next Week, "The Heart of Canyon Pass," By Thomas K. Holmes

There was on the whole more galety than sobriety about the impending birth. Even Fliss, who held strong views on motherhood and had more than once remarked that she did not mean to be ever "tied down," enjoyed looking at the beautiful baby clothes and the elaborate equipment which were showered upon Cecily, and they all talked about it a great deal with a gay frankness and humor utterly angular than the same of the intimate circle.

At dinners, Fliss naturally fell to Matthew and every one but Listthew himself fostered the pairing. Fliss, playing her game and hating her home background more every day, waited for something to come of all this. While she waited she played with Dick and it often happened that Matthew drifted to Cecily's side while the others amused themselves. And Fliss made a confidant of Dick and asked his advice, thereby establishing a bond. Fliss asked him if he didn't "Start a hat shop," he suggested jokingly.

"That, too, has been suggested. But it's not so easy to find someone with money whom you can manage."

"How about Matthew?"

"Matthew hasn't asked me."

"Shall I tell him to ask you?" teased Dick.

"If you like. But he won't—even though I wouldn't marry him if he did. I want something a little different from Matthew."

"A shade more jams is right!"

"A shade more jams is right!"

did. I want something a little dif-ferent from Matthew." "A shade more jazz?"

"A shade more jazz is right!" Matthew turned to call to them. "Who is taking my name in vain?" Fliss crossed the room negligently. "We were discussing," she told him with her engaging impudence, "the possibility of your marrying me."

'Am I going to do it?" "No. Rest easy. I've refused you "Because you haven't enough jazz," contributed Dick. "Reason enough. But I wonder why I haven't more of that peculiar quality. I never did have it. Perhaps because I had to go to work too young."

"Well, I should have gone to work
young, and I always had it," said Fliss.

Cecily was following them amused-ly. "And I never had to work at all and I haven't it."

"And Dick?" suggested Matthew.
"Dick's a jazzer thrown into high company," mocked Fliss.

It was one of their many idle, undeveloped, cross-purposed conversa-tions, which in spite of its lightness had a kind of function in bringing what to expect from each other, re-vealing their quality to each other. The weeks slipped along, each one important and interesting in its rela-tion to the doming of Cecily's child, bringing that great anticipation closer to them?

Chapter IV.

It was at Matthew's suggestion that they went to Allenby. Allenby was the name given in his honor to the little village at the mouth of one of the mines in which Matthew had large interests. Dick had been offered the stock which one of the directors was relinquishing and expressed a curiosity to see the place. Mat-

y for it, you damned blood suckers, our.—
Then he called Cecily a name which he had never heard before, but tich was utterly clear in its implication, even to her, and went swiftly we the road, lost in the increasing owd of homegoing miners. Cecily digone dead white. Then in the dat of it came a pain, a tearing in like nothing she had felt ever fore. Dick, coming up beside Fliss dignature and king, saw his wife, white facedaring. They were all immensely ightened and too inexperienced to sure what steps were best to take.

The dawn brought confidence and no small feeling of triumph to all of them. The nurse, the Carrington specialist and Cecily's mother all arrived and with the verdict of the trusted doctor that the baby was small but healthy and that Cecily was in no danger, they all began to enjoy the adventure in retrospect. Cecily could not be moved for at least ten days and the nurse tried to arrange the room as pleasantly and conveniently as possible, rather arousing a smoldering ire in Mrs. Olson until Dick, taking her aside, slipped a check into her hand of sufficient size to feed and clothe the little Olsons check into her hand of sufficient size to feed and clothe the little Olsons for the winter. After that the nurse had things her own way. It was obviously 'impossible for them all to stay in Allenby. Mrs. Warner took a room at a neighbor's house, the nurse stayed with Cecily on a camp bed imported from Carrington, and everything became quickly ordered and made comfortable by the ease of wealth. Matthew was to take Fliss back to Carrington in the afternoon, for Dick refused to stir for another twenty-four hours.

When Fliss came in before departing, Cecily said: "I'll never forget your seeing me through, Fliss. Never."

Fliss bent over her and kissed her. She had passed the stage of her first emotion and was reacht to recognize Fliss bent over her and kissed her. She had passed the stage of her first emotion and was ready to recognize what a lucky incident the whole thing had been for her. Mrs. Warner had said the same thing that Cecily had just said. She was established in that family and she knew it.

All back home again, the baby changed from a novelty into a treasure; to the period of ecstatic delight there succeeded the scientific business of infant care. The responsibility matured Cecily as responsibility matures the average woman. It tired her physically and numbed her mind a little.

"You mustn't let your cradle become an obsession," said her mother.

"Of course not. I wouldn't let myself get too absorbed. It wouldn't be fair to Dick," said Cecily, rather was more than usual radiance in her face.

"Why the million-dollar mood?" asked Dick.

Fliss laughed and flushed a little.

"I've had something happen to me—something nice."

"Secret? Tell us," begged Cecily.

"It's a real thrill. I'm engaged to be married. I'm to be married next month."

"Well, better luck next time! She might have been twins, which is worse that her not being a son! I only hope she'll have brains and be a source of pride to the family"—which was a tacit rebuke to Mrs. Langley, who was acknowledged to have none.

With these two wishes bestowed upon her small head, the lace-frilled bassinet was wheeled out to the dressing room where Marjorie Langley—Stuart's sister—waited. Looking down at the rosy little face on the pillow, Marjorie said softly:

"Fairy godmother, give her Lure—and she won't need the rest."

Answer—"If you get a blue serge suit, certainly choose a red lining, but with beige get beige lining. Whatever plain lining you get try that clever French trick of running a fanciful ribbon to cover the joining of the fabric to the lining. There are some narrow black ribbons with Chinese lanterns and fans droppling down the middle; too darling for words. I have it on my Paris cape Cheruit made me last autumn. It gives quite a gay flicker to the dull material."

In such comment here and there in the restaurant between afternoon and morning shopping, at the family dinner table while the bored males sit supercilious, and say "anything you like so you don't hit me hard with the bill on the day I am paying my second income tax installment," one gets the truth about suits.

Beige is an admirable color for warm weather, but don't be carcless and get the tone that leans toward maple sugar or mud. Watch for a streak of pink or faint lilae in the beige you choose. Wisdom and attractiveness lie there. The hiplongth box coat is the fool of the hour. It has no pockets. It's your way. Fashion does not proscribe. lin underwear was that they did not need elaborate laundering. So many women's laundry work was reduced to a minimum. Women who lived in hotels and boarding houses figured all these things down to a nice point, and a surprisingly large number of them found the means of doing a very large proportion of their washing and ironing in their own rooms. Even women who dressed expensively begrudged a laundry bill of three or four dollars a week, that would be inevitable 'if washing was all done at the laundry. There is even some practical reason behind the present vogue for colored handkerchiefs instead of those of pure white linen. Once, you know colored handkerchiefs become fashionable because men and women took snuff, and snuff stains showed in pure white handkerchiefs even after they had been washed. Now we cannot ascribe their vogue to snuff. But handkerchiefs that are not submitted to the thorough process of boiling, blueing and drying in the sunlight are bound to become a little yellow after many vestings. With colored handkerchiefs this is not present, or is well hidden beneath the color of the handkerchief.

AT WOMAN'S WINDOW BY W. L. GEORGE

Marry Miss Shea One might almost say in these days that every woman is some time compelled to face a change of residence to another city, perhaps to another country. As a rule she does not do this willingly; she folmade wretched; she goes to a place where she knows nobody, the climate of which she dislikes, the local habits of which are new. She mourns the old ways, and especially her old friends. She may easily make herself and her family wretched.

Often she takes the obvious way out. She searches in the new for people who originally came from her own town, and combi with them into a close little circle to live in the new places as they did in the old. That is a bad way, a narrowing way; it helps her to keep flostile to the people among whom she has been brought by force; it makes her a stranger. The only way is to take things as they are, and not as she would like them to be. If she wants to be happy among the new faces she must make them into familiar faces. She must obey her temperament, throw herself into the activities of her new city, the church, the club, the social service movement. She will find that the new people are much like the old, and quite ready to welcome her if she will let them. A woman who shifts her residence must be a citizen of the world, anxious to take people as she finds them. After all, she wants to feel at home, to make herself at home

EMORY AND TECH WIN AT TENNIS

Tech won the doubles in the S. I. A. A. tennis meet held Saturday afternoon on the Emory campus, defeating both Oglethorpe and Emory. Emory drew a bye thereby causing Tech and Oglethorpe to meet in the first match of the afternoon. McIvey and Blake, for Tech, defeated Gordy and Williams for Oglethorpe. The scores were: 6-2, 6-1. After winning from Oglethorpe quite easily, McIvey and Blake met Silver and Kaufman, of Emory. The match resulted in a victory for the Tech boys by the scores of 6-4, 6-4, 6-1.

In the singles, Blake, for Tech, met and defeated Gordy, of Oglethorpe, 6-3 and 6-1. Simpson, for amory, who was defeated in the singles last year by Blake, represented his school against the Yellow Jacket player and won four straight matches.

WORLD'S FAIR-AGOGA GAME IN COVINGTON

The World's Fair and Agoga baseball teams will play at Covington, Ga., Wednesday at 3 p. m. The Covington people are very much pleased to have these two teams play there, and it is expected that a large crowd will be on hand, as both teams have players from Newton county. This will be a good game, as the Agogas have not lost a game this season and the World's Fair team has won six out of eight games played.

Owen Pack, who is now looking after the World's Fair team, has greatly strengthened it by putting Mumford, who was with Atlanta for a while, in the infield, and "Home Run" Thaxston and Hamell, last year with Oglethorpe, in the outfield.

Today will mark the opening of Norma Talmadge's "Smilin' Through" at the Metropolitan. Her production of Allen Langdon Martin's famous play in which Jane Cowl won her greatest success on the stage, is said to be easily the finiest pictures the lovely Norma has given to the screen.

A cast of unusual excellence appears in support of the star.

Robertson Hurls No-Hit Game For White Sox Against Tigers

Not a Detroit Runner Reaches Initial Sack. Duplicates Feat of Joss

Detroit, April 30.-Charley Rob ertson, Chicago American pitcher, entered baseball's hall of fame by pitching a no-run, no-hit against the Detroit, the White Sox winning, 2 to 0.

Not a Tiger reached first base.

In keeping the Tigers from first base throughout the nine innings, Robertson, obtained by the White Sox from Minneapolis, parallelled the feat of Addie Joss, hurling against Ed Walsh, of Chicago, October 2, 1908.

Robertson was given faultiess support particularly by McClellan and Collins, whose snappy fielding retired six Tigers at first. Collins also retired four on flies. Only six balls were driven far into the outfield, and these were gathered in by Hooper and Mostil with lirtle difficulty. Robertson fanned six Detroiters as part of troit, the White Sox winning, 2 to 0. Mostil with little difficulty. Robertson fanned six Detroiters as part of his contribution to a perfect day's work. Manager Cobb called in two pinch hitters in the ninth in an effort to stop Robertson, but they went down as their teammates did before them.

Aside from the second inning, in which the visitors scored their two runs, Pillette also showed splendid control.

The game that was postponed Saturday with the Seventh District A. & M. because of the cold weather will be played one day this week. In addition to this game, the Fultonites will meet the Marist college nine and probably Marietta High, while dates with some of the other strong high schools in the state are being secured.

Coach Wimberly has been working extra hard with his men during the past week, and their showing last week is proof a plenty that they can hold their own with any of the high school teams of the state. New York, April 30.—Miller Huggins, the tiny tovarish of the Yankee soviet, having slept on his slapped face, has decided not to courtmartial Comrade Waite Hoyt, the boy wonder of the big leagues who attempted a militant coup in Saturday's game with the Boston Red Sox. Hoyt was said to have revolted on the Yankees' bonch with a wring at the companied. said to have revolted on the lankees' bench with a swing at the communist lender's jaw, or as it is called in Hoyt's own country beyond Brooklyn bridge, his jawr.

oftended, too. As an authoritative official, in close touch with the keyhole of the Yankees' clubhouse explained, Huggins can't turn any other cheek now unless he's a two-face.

Comrade Hoyt, of the young pitchers' committee, had a fiss with Comrade Schang, leading commissar of the Yankee catchers' council in the last phase of Saturday's 14-inning battle with the Red Sox, in which the soviet forces were defeated.

Schang is a pretty sizeable citizen and they do say he swings an evil set of salary-snatchers in a fight.
Of course this isn't what deterred Comrade Hoyt from smashing Comrade Schang. The fact is that under the rules of military and diplomatic precedence obtaining in the Yankee soviet army, one always carries one's kicks to headquarters, and so when there's any smacking to be done one is constrained to smack the tiny tovarish, as manager. It would have been a serious social and military error for Hoyt to smash Comrade Schang and the tiny tovarish only

After the uprising had been quelled, Tovarish Huggins and Ed Barrow, the finance commissar of the Yankee soviet, foregathered over a samovar of Cambric tea and a plate of headache wafers in a delicatessen on the Newsky. It is said that the tiny tovarish wished to sock the boy wonder of the big leagues with a fine of 2,000,000,000 rables, or $200, which procedure proved so salutary in the case of Comrade Cael Mays, the time that dissentient soldier in the soviet forces heaved a $2.25 cork-center ball over the grandstand.

"But listen, tovarish," Comrade Barrow argued. "We got lots of times $200 but we only got one boy wonder of the big leagues."

"Yes, I know, comrade." the tiny one insisted, "but you got no idea of the wear and tear on a manager.
My dentist says that's what's the

"But comrade." the commissar said.

STATISTICS Rebellion Against Ruth Suspension Falls Flat; Winning Team the Reason

New York Fans Beginning to Think That Landis Strengthened Team by Suspending the Sultan.

BY HUGH FULLERTON.

BY HUGH FULLERTON.

It is rather queer that the New York rebellion against the suspension of Babe Ruth until May 20 subsided as suddenly. To outsiders the sudden cessation of the howls and the protests of the fans has a big significance. Further than that, the his services to the organization of sudden cassing of the wild and reck-sumstenrs was great. significance. Further than that, the sudden ceasing of the wild and reckless attacks upon Judge Landis for suspending gabe Ruth means a great deal.

The truth is that the Yankees are the earlier New York Athletic cluber of the control of the earlier New York Athletic cluber of the control o

The truth is that the Yankees are playing better team baseball than they have played in the last two years. They are hustling, playing together better and showing more brains and inside stuff. It is not possible to decide that this sudden epoch of team play by a club which has been notorious for lack of coordination is due to the fact Ruth is out of the line-up. At the same time the fans will watch with extreme care after May 20 to discover whether or not the club goes back to its old slash-back, scienceless system of playing the national pastime.

slash-back, scienceless system of playing the national pastime.
Regardless of the fact that nothing is proved, the fans, who were howling wildly that the suspension of Ruth had wrecked the Yankee team, suddenly subsided and are commencing to think that Judge Landis probably made the Yankees strong by suspending Ruth.
YANKS PLAY

Looking over the early games, it

Looking over the early games, it is certain that the Yankees could not have won any more games with Ruth in the line-up than they have done, and there are three games which might have been lost had he been playing. All of which that everything comes out in the wash.

If the Yankees had lost a preponderance of the early games the New York fans would have thought that their team was being robbed. Now they will think that Judge Landis did nothing bat his plain duty, and even strained the quality of his mercy, when he made Ruth's sentence too slight.

BASEBALL
DOPE JUSTIFIED.

So far as the baseball season already has gone, the pre-season dope is justified. The splash of the early season has been the Chicago Cubs, who are demonstrating again the fact, which has been proved so often, that any team that will get out, keep on its toes all the time and hustle to the limit will win a lot of ball games. The Cubs on paper rank way down the list. The chances are that they will finish far down the list, but the fact that they are hustling, fighting for every point, makes for interest in baseball and for victory even for the weak teams.

Bill Killefer has that bunch hustling. In fact, he and Bill Veeck plotted a campaign of hustling, and fighting, and the team will keep right on. If they can keep it fighting, in spite of defeats and discouragements, it will be a great ball club, whether it finishes first or eighth.

Mr. Curtiss wants to rest assured that his firm never has tried to interfere with the management of the A. U. and never will.

SPALDING FIRM
A BIG INFLUENCE.
There was no intent in anything I wrote to intimate that this was the fact. In fact I desired to show what a tremendous influence the Spalding concern was during the early days of organized athletics in the United States. True, the first organization in sport was due to commercial conditions. Spalding's started printing rule books and the situation was forced upon them that half a dozen codes of rules for the same game were in use. Naturally they desired to print a rule book that would be nuiversal and that inspired the first organization. Later the New York Athletic club led the organization of what is now the A. A. U. EARLY RULE
BOOKS TO BLAME.
It is true also that in many of the early rule books the rules provided that no game was an official contest unless Spalding's goods were used. It remember one game down in Ohito which was declared no contest because a Spalding football was not used, and there were several instances of rows in early basketball games where decisions were handed down upholding that clause in the rules which called for the use of Spalding balls in all official contests.

of the big national banks of New York in discussing market conditions. "Fluctuations in business activity are however, to be expected this year, and the slowing up presents no new aspect, being in part seasonal and in part the result of renewed caution in buying and in commitments for the future.

"The outlook continues to justify faith in gradual improvements in 1922. The experience of the closing months of 1921 will doubtless be repeated. Orders will probabl, be numerous, but for small amounts for prompt delivery, serving to keep production at a fairly satisfactory rate in most staple lines. Operations under these circumstances will be difficult but sounder trade and labor conditions will certainly result.

"The outstanding fact in the world today is the economic strength and

If a Lump of Coal Could Speak for Itself The public has an inherent and stupendous interest in the present coal strike situation, because coal approgress of man as is food. With approximately 400,000 bituminous and 150,000 anthracite coal miners on strike, it is well that the average citizen should ponder what it means to have the flow of such a vital necessity as coal even temporarily checked by either operator or miner.

approximately 400,000 bituminous and 150,000 anthracite coal miners on strike, it is well that the average citizen should ponder what it means to have the flow of such a vital necessity as coal even temporarily checked by either operator or miner.

The real contention seems to be that the operators feel that wages must be deflated and the miners are unwilling to entertain such a program.

Assuming that coal could speak for itself, would it not say:

"I am a lump of coal. In your eyes I seem a black thing dug from the bowels of the earth. But I am something more. I am a child of the sun that shone hot through humid air for a million years that formed the period of my gestation. Age after age, lush and beautiful vegetation covered the earth and was preserved in my form for the use of men who had not been born.

"In me was stored up the heat, licht and power of the orb of day I give them forth as I am consumed in fiery furnaces. I drive stramships

Cotton Conditions in Southern States

The latest J. W. Jay report on cotton, in New York Commercial, says in part:

"Cotton is up in a few places as far north as North Carolina and South Carolina.

"The flood situation in the Mississippi river valley is causing concern and has delayed planting in some delta counties. The river is at a record high level and in some adjacent counties it is thought the water will not subside in time to plant this year. Lowlands in these counties are flooded by backwater from streams which empty into the Mississippi. The levees are in good condition, and while there is occasion for concern, there is none for alarm. The crest of the water has been reached in the upper cotton country, and is slowly dropping. Danger will continue to exist for several weeks.

"There is no doubt whatever that the southern farmer has given considerable thought to every phase of the cotton situation. He is fully alive to the boll weeril menace. He knows that heavy inroads have been and are being made into the world'e surplus of cotton. (The carry-over July 31, 1922, of American cotton will be around 5,000,000 bales, all kinds, all sources.) He believes, and justily so, that the prospects are for a price that will yield a fair profit. This, coupled with the fact that the gains are shown in basic industries simultaneously with a disappointing spring retail trade in many parts of the country.

"The steel industry of the United States, the movement of which has been accepted for many years as a business index, has recently shown marked expansion. The industry as a whole is now at 70 per cent of capacity. Demand is well distributed throughout all classes of products, and is well sustained on the higher price levels which are being established. Important in this connection is the fact that a large proportion of the new orders reported is for railroad equipment. Pig iron production is at the highest figure since January, 1921. The monthly rate of steel ingot production approximates that of 1913. Unfilled orders of the United States. Steel corporation on March 31 were 4,494,000 tons.

"The manufacture of automobiles and of tires and other automobile accessories is expanding rapidly, although this is undoubtedly seasonal to a considerable degree. Retail trade in goods not designed for personal and household consumption shows improvement. The hardware business is better not only in builders' hardware but in the many classes of miscellaneous purchases by farmera. Agricultural implement sales have increased and there is a definite expansion in the fertilizer business, activity in both lines being in excess of even the expected seasonal demand.

"The return to normal conditions is not an orderly process, and activity may shift unexpectedly from one point to another. The setback in retail trade is the direct consequence."

All the current year's crops are good. The current years of their business. Buying by workers in cities has declined heavily—the cumulative effect of pro-loged unemployment. It now seems likely that retail trade is have distributed through the until the normal mid-summer dustries prove permanent the autumn offers prove permanent the autumn offers prove permanent the until the formal proventions on a stable basis.

Child Crusaders DEMOCRAT GAINS To Renew Efforts ENEMENT FIRE To See President

Attended Harding's Church Sunday, But Were Ushered to "Junior Service."

Washington, April 30 .- The "Child

Washington, April 30.—The "Child Crusaders" who traveled half way across the country to plead with President Harding for the release of their fathers, who were jailed during the war for political offenses, will stay in Washington until President Harding gives them a hearing.

Undaunted by his refusal to see them, and their rebuff at the gates of the white house, the little army has settled down to wait.

War plans are being formulated. Leaders of the party discussed the question of picketing the white house, President Harding's golf course and his church. Mrs. Kate Richards O'Hare, in command of the thirty-seven "crusaders," mostly children, sajd that the president probably would see them sometime this week. It is the firm intention of the party to stay until he does grant an interview, she said.

Former Defendant At Murder Trial Kills Son and Self

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 30.—Dr. W. P. Allen, of Dayton, Tenn., who was last December acquitted of the murder of Burch C. Gardenhire, member of a well-known Tennessee family, after one of the most sensational murder trials ever staged in Rhea county, tonight killed his nineyenrold son, W. P., Jr., shot at his wife and committed suicide.

The double tragedy occurred three miles south of Dayton, as Dr. Allen, his wife and son, were returning from an automobile ride.

Mrs. Allen said the shooting was done without any warning. She told Sheriff Cann Burnett, who made a personal investigation, that Dr. Allen, who was driving the car, stopped at the side of the road, drew his pistol, shot the child through the head and then got out of the seat. She jumped out on the other side, she said, and ran, as Allen started shooting at her.

The physician fired twice at Mrs. Allen and failing to hit her, turned the gun on himself and blew out his brains. Both Allen and the child were killed instantly. Mrs. Allen was oicked up by a passing motorist and laken to her home, where she immeliately collapsed.

Big Political Come-Back Is Predicted This Year in the President's Home

BY ROBERT C. BENDER. emocratic party, One this year is the porfices garden spot of America. From the democratic viewpoint things could not be worse than they have been since the last election, and hence any thing will be better. While the sit-uation before the August primaries has not yet cleared to the point that outcome, general conditions in the inve grediction that the democrats will make great gains.

In making these gains in a pivotal state like Unio, particularly in view of the fact that it is Pressient Harding's home state, vast and possibly un-ine importance will be attached by the democrats to such victories as they

But in staging their comeback, the democrats must recall that Harding beat Cox in Ohio in 1920 by more than 400,000 votes and that Governor Davis, at the same time, carried the republican state ticket through by a 120,000 majority. On this wave the state government was elected en toto; every state senator but one is republican; only 12 out of 125 stat representatives are democrats; the re-publicans got all but one state sureme court judgeships, and not a ingle democrat sits in the house of ongress at Washington out of Ohio's

So, as democrats view it, the situation could not be worse. And with the feeling that anything will not only be tion could not be worse. And with the feeling that anything will not only be better but highly significant, they are organizing rapidly, drawing back into the old fold leaders like former Secretary of War. Newton D. Baker, and making an effort to make their comeback a ciean-up.

Generally speaking, the big railroad and mine labor vote which helped the republican majorities in 1920 is back in the democratic column. In talking with railroaders and miners one gets the constant refrain: "You can't find a man among us now who admits he voted for Harding," and the reason for this, it is repeated everywhere by these workers, is: "When the railroad workers started a strike the government intervened. When the mine operators forced the present strike the government assumd a 'hands off' poiicy." It has left the workers in both these groupsæresentful—and they are out to register this resentment.

Based on findings along this line it would seem now—and political leaders privately admit this—that the tainly making big gains in the state legislature.

There is, however, one big "but" or "if" in the situation. The democrata, while happy at the outlook, realize they almost must be united if the outlook is to be fulfilled. As a subsequent story will show, the organization of both parties are badly hampered by personal animosities and conflicting ambitions. The democrats, nevertheless, would seem to have the best chance of ironing out their differences and therein lies the basis of such optimism as they are entitled to such optimism as they are entitled thus early in the fight.

BATHING SUIT MARRIAGE ENDS IN DIVORCE COURT.

The wedding referred to was that of Miss Helen Brinsfield of Atlanta and Frank Wall, wealthy oil operator, which occurred last August in Okiahoma City.

While they were out swimming in a public pool they decided to get married and a minister was sent for. Rev. Thomas Lyrin responded and while the couple was standing in the water, with the pastor on the bank, the knot was tied.

It failed to last, however, for after the couple lived together for thirty days, Mrs. Emma Brinsfield, of 240 Courtland street, started court action in her daughter's name and the wedding has just been annulled. Mr. Wall was twice married, his first wife being a sister of the second. The first wedding ended in the divorce courts.

New Orleans, April 30 .- While I side in time to allow anything but a price movements in cetton this week care somewhat wider than they have been they were still within narrow limits and the close was 9 points lower to 26 points higher than the close of the preceeding week. At the highest the list stood at net gains of 13 to 34 points and at the lowest it stood at net losses of 16 to 28 points. May traded up to 17.12 at the middle of the week, after sagning to 16.71 in the early sessions. Finally closing at 16.90. In the spot department middling gained 12 points in the net results, closing at 17.00. A year ago middling closed at 11.25.

Small declines of the early part of the week were due to liquidation which accompanied first May notices, this sort of selling being in sympathy with the issuance of notices for 25,000 bales in the New York market. Notices here amounted to only 1,000 bales. After first notice day was over more attention was paid to river and weather news, which was unsatisfactory, on the whole, causing a buying movement of moderate proportions on which the market moved up to its highest levels. The extremely heavy rains in Texas, accompanied by further floods were considered to be extremely damaging to crop prospects in that state. The break in the Mississippi river levee in Concordia parish, Louisiana, put a large area of estton land under water and experienced cotton men expressed the opinion that the water would not subside in time to allow anything but a very late start for the crop in that section of the belt. In the eastern belt there was more or less complaint about too much rain in some sections, too little in others and of too low temperatures for germination, here and there. Opinions here at the end of the week was that, generally speaking, planting had not made the progress that should be seen at this time of the year.

or the week was that, generally spearing, planting had not made the progress that should be seen at this time of the year.

The matter of acreage caused much discussion and three private estimates made their appearance, one placing the increase in the acreage at 6 per cent, another at 11 per cent and another at 19 per cent. The latter report indicated almost the largest area on record, 37,400,000 acres. The figures caused little stir in the market because they seemed to be regarded as too high.

Mill accounts were somewhat better and much favorable comment followed the news by cable from Liverpool that the Lancashire dispute had been settled. Reports from New England to brokers here that several large mills might cancel some of the business they had taken, because of the prolonged strike, caused almost a sensation. Later in the week the trade was favorably impressed by estimates of 150,000 pieces of print cloths as the week's sales in the Fall River market. Week-end market circulars continued to call the market much of a weather affair and predicted that fluctuations of the near future would
